Cash System Found to Be a Good Thing in

Yesterday, January 1, was the first anniversary of the Kansas Steam Laun dry under its present management, and its proprietors celebrated the occasion with eclat, in view of great increase in the volume and very satisfactory im provement in every way in business during the year just closed. Contrary to their expectations the adoption of the strictly cash system on the firs. of December improved rather than depressed their business, which circumstance is a high compliment to the manner of doing business and quality of their work, and, withal, promptness—a leading fea-ture in their business methods. Messrs Rawson and Freeman are altogether worthy of the warm congratulations they are receiving from their friends at the good measure of success that has attended their year's business operations.

Funny Kentucky Pets Kept by People the Fork of Forks. They have some strange pets in east-ern Kentucky. It is nothing uncommon to find pet foxes, coons, squirrels, owls, and rabbits. > Judge Mulliken, of Nashville, and myself were looking after coal lands in the fall of 1889 and we stopped at a little dilapidated log cabin for dinner. There was plenty of cabbage and other vegetables growing in the garden, and we had learned from experience to take these things into consideration, for sometimes we stopped at cabins where there was no garden and found rations rather scarce.

> Everybody in the mountains receives travelers and makes them welcome to what he has. We were tired and took our seats under the front porch that had a good, smooth dirt floor and were eating some delicious apples, and right here let me say that the best tasting apples in the world grow in the moun tains of eastern Kentucky. While eat-ing and dropping the peelings around the chairs a big, long, gaunt hog of the razor-back brand came up and commenced eating the peelings. I thought he was rather familiar on such short acquaintance, as he walked over our feet and tried to root over our chairs, so finally the judge got disgusted and gave the hog a kick.

> Imagine his surprise when the hog turned and charged him, knocked over his chair, spilled our snake medicine out of our saddlebags and commenced to do us up on short notice. We managed to get to the fence and leave that hog monarch of all he surveyed. The lady of the house finally came out and put him out of the yard. She said he was a pet pig and had been in the family so long they could not think of killing him. I think they called him Billy. When dinner was ready we found that the table was nailed up around the legs so we could not get our feet under it, and when we asked the reason for it we were told it was done to keep Billy and the dogs from getting under there while they were eating, when they would fight and turn the table over. That table would have been a curiosity at the world's fair. It had a little round turn-table in the middle of the big table, on which the victuals were placed, and it worked so nicely that when it was started it went round like a merry-go-round, and if you were a good baseball catcher you could snatch what you wanted as it sailed by. This would be a splendid plan to adopt when servants are scarce. While eating the bread gave out, and our host reached over in the skillet near by and pick out a pone of corn bread built on the plan of a brickbat except thicker and harder on the outside, and threw it down on the merry-go-round with He the remark:

A Costly Fur. A late woman writer, an authority in relation to furs, says: "Do women know why it is that astrakhan, or Persian lamb, costs so much money? It is not because in and of itself this fur is especially beautiful or becoming, for it is neither. It is the cost of life that is paid for. Just as the female kid is about to give birth to her young, she OF COURSE is killed, and the skin stripped from the unborn, but often living, little one. This inhuman practice is owing to the fact that only in this way can the soft, ess of the fur be prese after birth it become harsh and wiry. Two lives have to be taken to get one small skin, and this is what makes astrakhan so expensive."-Good Health.

Some resembled the instruments now in use, while others are so completely different from anything of the kind now employed that their use is entirely conjectural. It is with much pleasure we note the appreciation of the citizens of Wichita and surrounding territory of the low prices we are making, as evidenced by the liberal patronage they have favored us with since our adoption of the Cash system. We desire to especially thank them for the enormous business during the past week, which was so much greater than we anticipated that our force was wholly inadequate to properly attend to the same, and we hope that any delays or apparent neglect will be overlooked for these reasons. We are making special efforts to reduce stock before invoicing January 1st. Certain lives and edds and ends will be closed out very cheap. Come and look through our stock.
